

Kawasaki - City of Music

Kawasaki has a wealth of “music resources,” such as two music universities, the MUZA Kawasaki Symphony Hall, and many civic orchestras, choirs, and brass bands. With the city hosting more international events in recent years, Kawasaki - City of Music is increasingly gaining international attention.

»Based in Kawasaki, one of the leading orchestras in Japan
Tokyo Symphony Orchestra

Kawasaki City franchise orchestra. In addition to the kids program, “Orchestra Experience from Age Zero,” the orchestra has composed a fight song for Kawasaki Frontale and conducts other wide-ranging activities. It actively performs ensembles at the city’s schools and public facilities.

Facilities include Teatro Giglio Showa, a horseshoe-shaped theater unique in Japan, and Yuri Hall, where off-campus groups also hold concerts. The university actively conducts community promotion activities, including student performances at the city’s elementary schools and nursing home and welfare facilities.

»Live music supported by city residents and communities
Street corner performances

“Busker (street performer)” events are held at the Kawasaki Ginza Shopping Mall and Isago-dori. Live music in an array of genres is also performed in front of the MUZA Kawasaki Gate Plaza and the Ward Office lobby.

Having been born and grown up in Kawasaki, I held my 20th debut anniversary recital at MUZA Kawasaki Symphony Hall. Many people flew or took the Shinkansen from all over Japan and gathered in Kawasaki! I still give performances at elementary schools in Kawasaki in between my national tours and TV and radio appearances. I am experiencing Kawasaki - City of Music firsthand.
