

For non-Japanese moms & dads: Learn and ask about applying for daycare

When parents are busy with work or other commitments, they can leave their children at a daycare center. If you want to enroll your child in daycare, talk to your local ward office.

You can find more details there.

What documents do I need to submit after enrollment?

What should I do if I want to transfer my child?

How are daycare fees calculated?

Is there a place I can consult when I'm having parenting troubles?

This workshop aims to provide answers to the concerns and worries that parents often have.

Feel free to join us!

(Interpretation available in Chinese, Vietnamese, Filipino, and English)

What's a daycare center like? ~ Daily life at the center

What types of daycare centers are there?

How do I apply for a "licensed daycare center"?

What's the application process?

Where else can I leave my child besides daycare?
